Marta was born on a farm. She has chores every day. The chore she likes best is feeding larks. Larks are birds that sing a lot. Marta likes to hear them each day.

In March, Marta works in her garden. She sees larks try teamwork to turn a leaf. "What is under that leaf?" Marta thinks.

Marta picks up the leaf. A fat bug looks back at her! "Wow! Those larks are smart!" exclaims Marta. "I will start watching larks at work."

Marta sees larks working hard finding food. Even little larks eat lots of bugs. Larks swoop and dart in the sky. Hardly any bugs get away!

Marta sees larks working hard making nests. Larks pull bits of bark from large trees. They take blades of grass from the yard. Larks find torn yarn. They carry these things to a safe place. Then larks turn bark, grass, and yarn into nests!

Marta likes watching larks at work. And larks feel safe when Marta is close. Marta would never harm her larks!
